

Ideas on how to use Jimmy as a prompt for writing

- Write a fiction story about an animal from the animal's point of view.
- Study a pet in your home. Imagine what he is thinking and feeling. Write dialog for him or her.
- Write a personal narrative or a poem or a song about a time you felt different in a good way, or a bad way, from others.
- Write a personal narrative or a poem or a song about a time you got hurt or were sick or went to the hospital.
- Write a fiction story or a play about how someone deals with a bully.
- Write a personal narrative or a comic strip about a time when you or someone else stopped a bully from teasing or threatening or hurting someone.
- Write about someone who is special to you. How did they become special to you? You might write this as a personal narrative, poem, song, letter, or another genre.
- Write about someone who faces challenges in their life. You might write this as a personal narrative, poem, song, letter, or another genre.
- Write about someone you know who is tough. You might write this as a personal narrative, poem, song, letter, or another genre.
- Write about a time you realized life is hard, but life is good. You might write this as a personal narrative, poem, song, letter, or another genre.
- Research and write a report about snake bites, how to treat snake bites, or animal hospitals.